Hear What our Students Say:

The HKPFS has enabled me to advance interdisciplinary research in Blue Humanities and Pacific environmental literature, examining transnational Pacific ecologies, toxicity, and climate crisis narratives. Through international conference presentations and forthcoming publications, I am developing a globally engaged research agenda that bridges literary studies and environmental thought.

Ananya ROY
From India
PhD in English Literary Studies (HKPFS Awardee)

The CUHK MSc in Management programme offers practical and experiential learning guided by industry experts, enabling me to transform theoretical knowledge into real-world applications. It has built a strong foundation in both technical and interpersonal business skills, empowering me to grow professionally and navigate future career challenges with confidence.

Kyungrok KIM
